

This image is a blank grid consisting of 30 columns and 15 rows of empty cells. The grid is composed of thin black lines forming a rectangular array of 450 individual cells. There is no text or data within the grid.

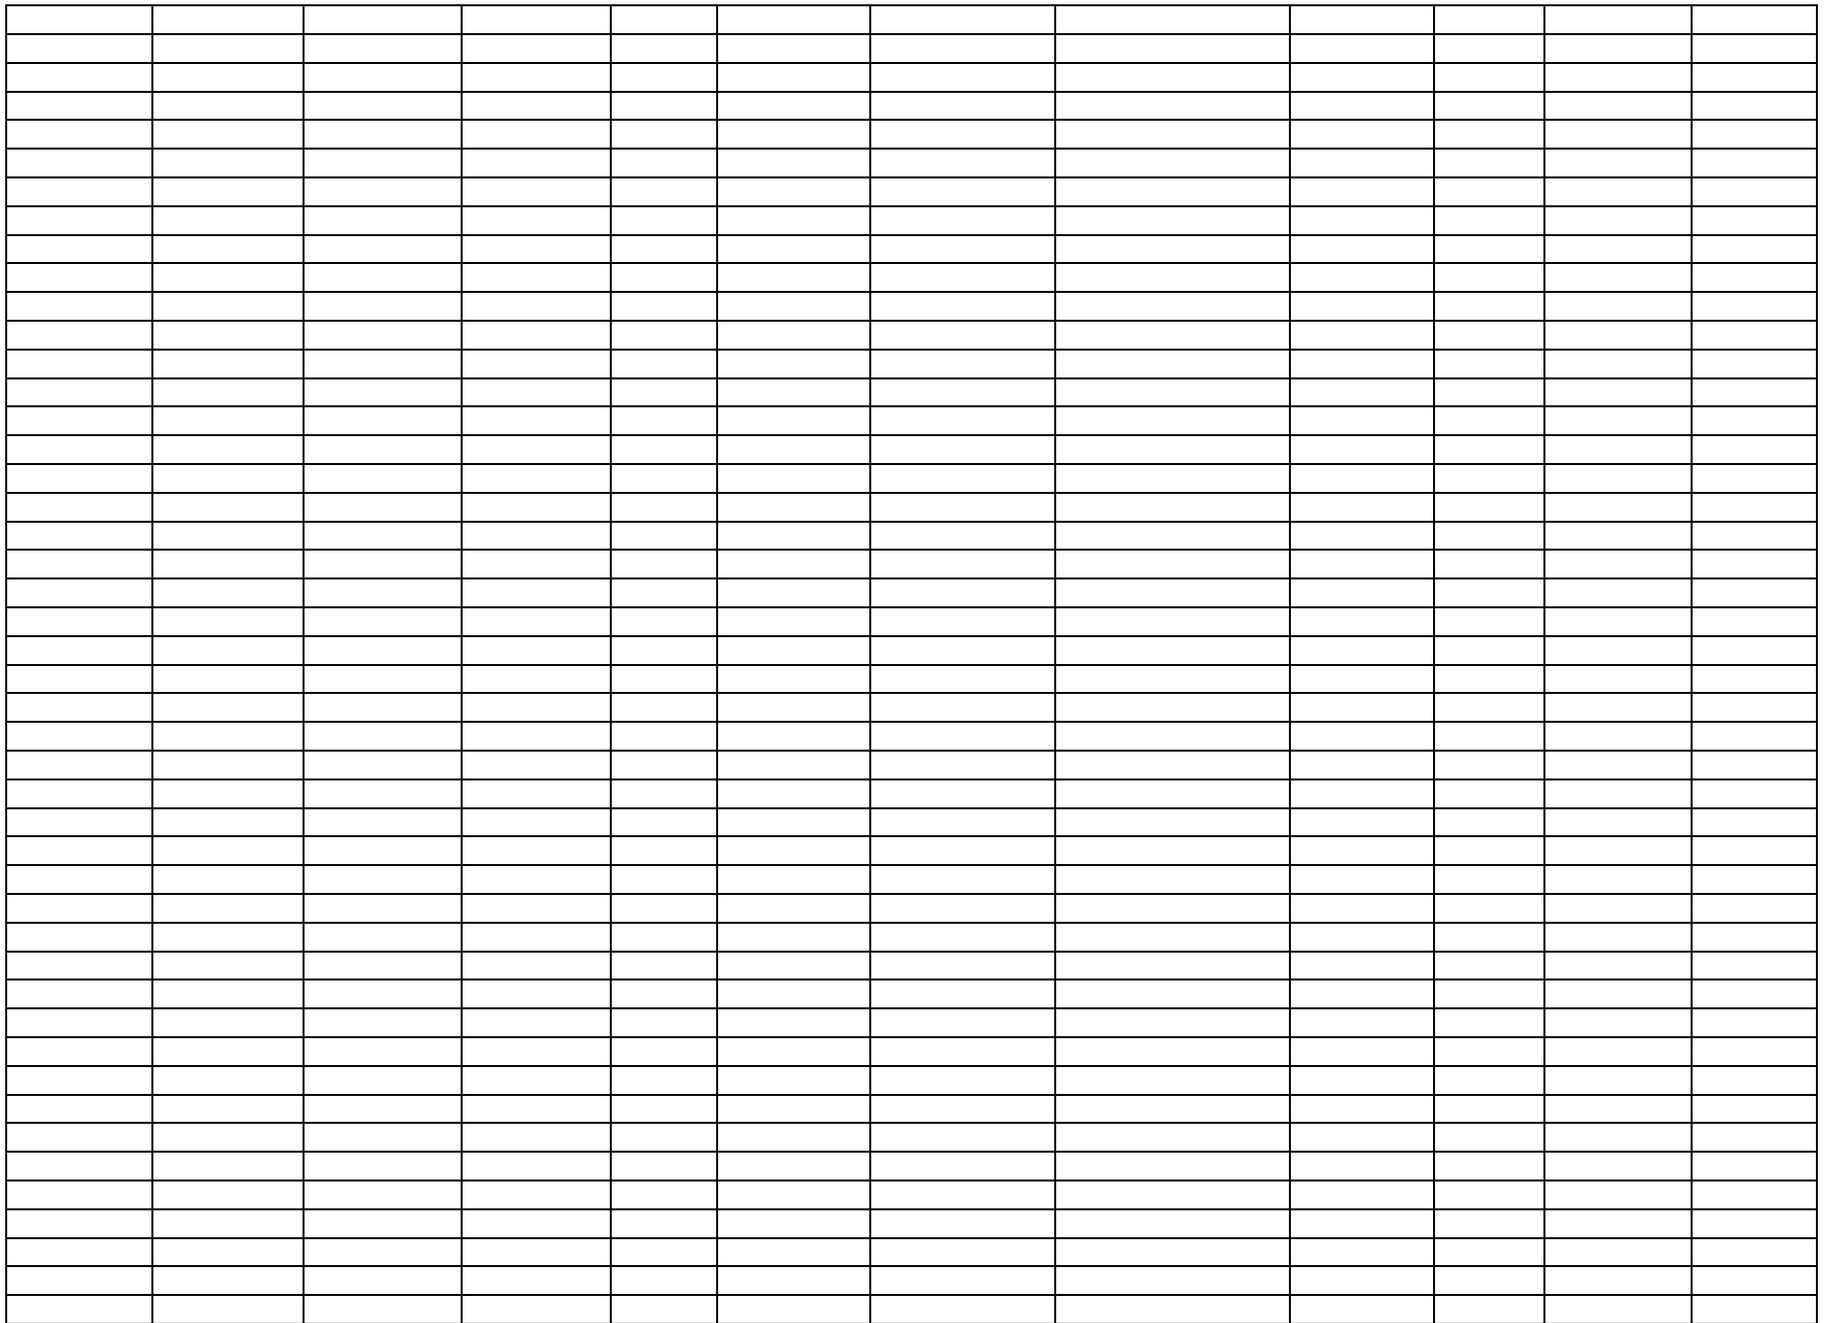

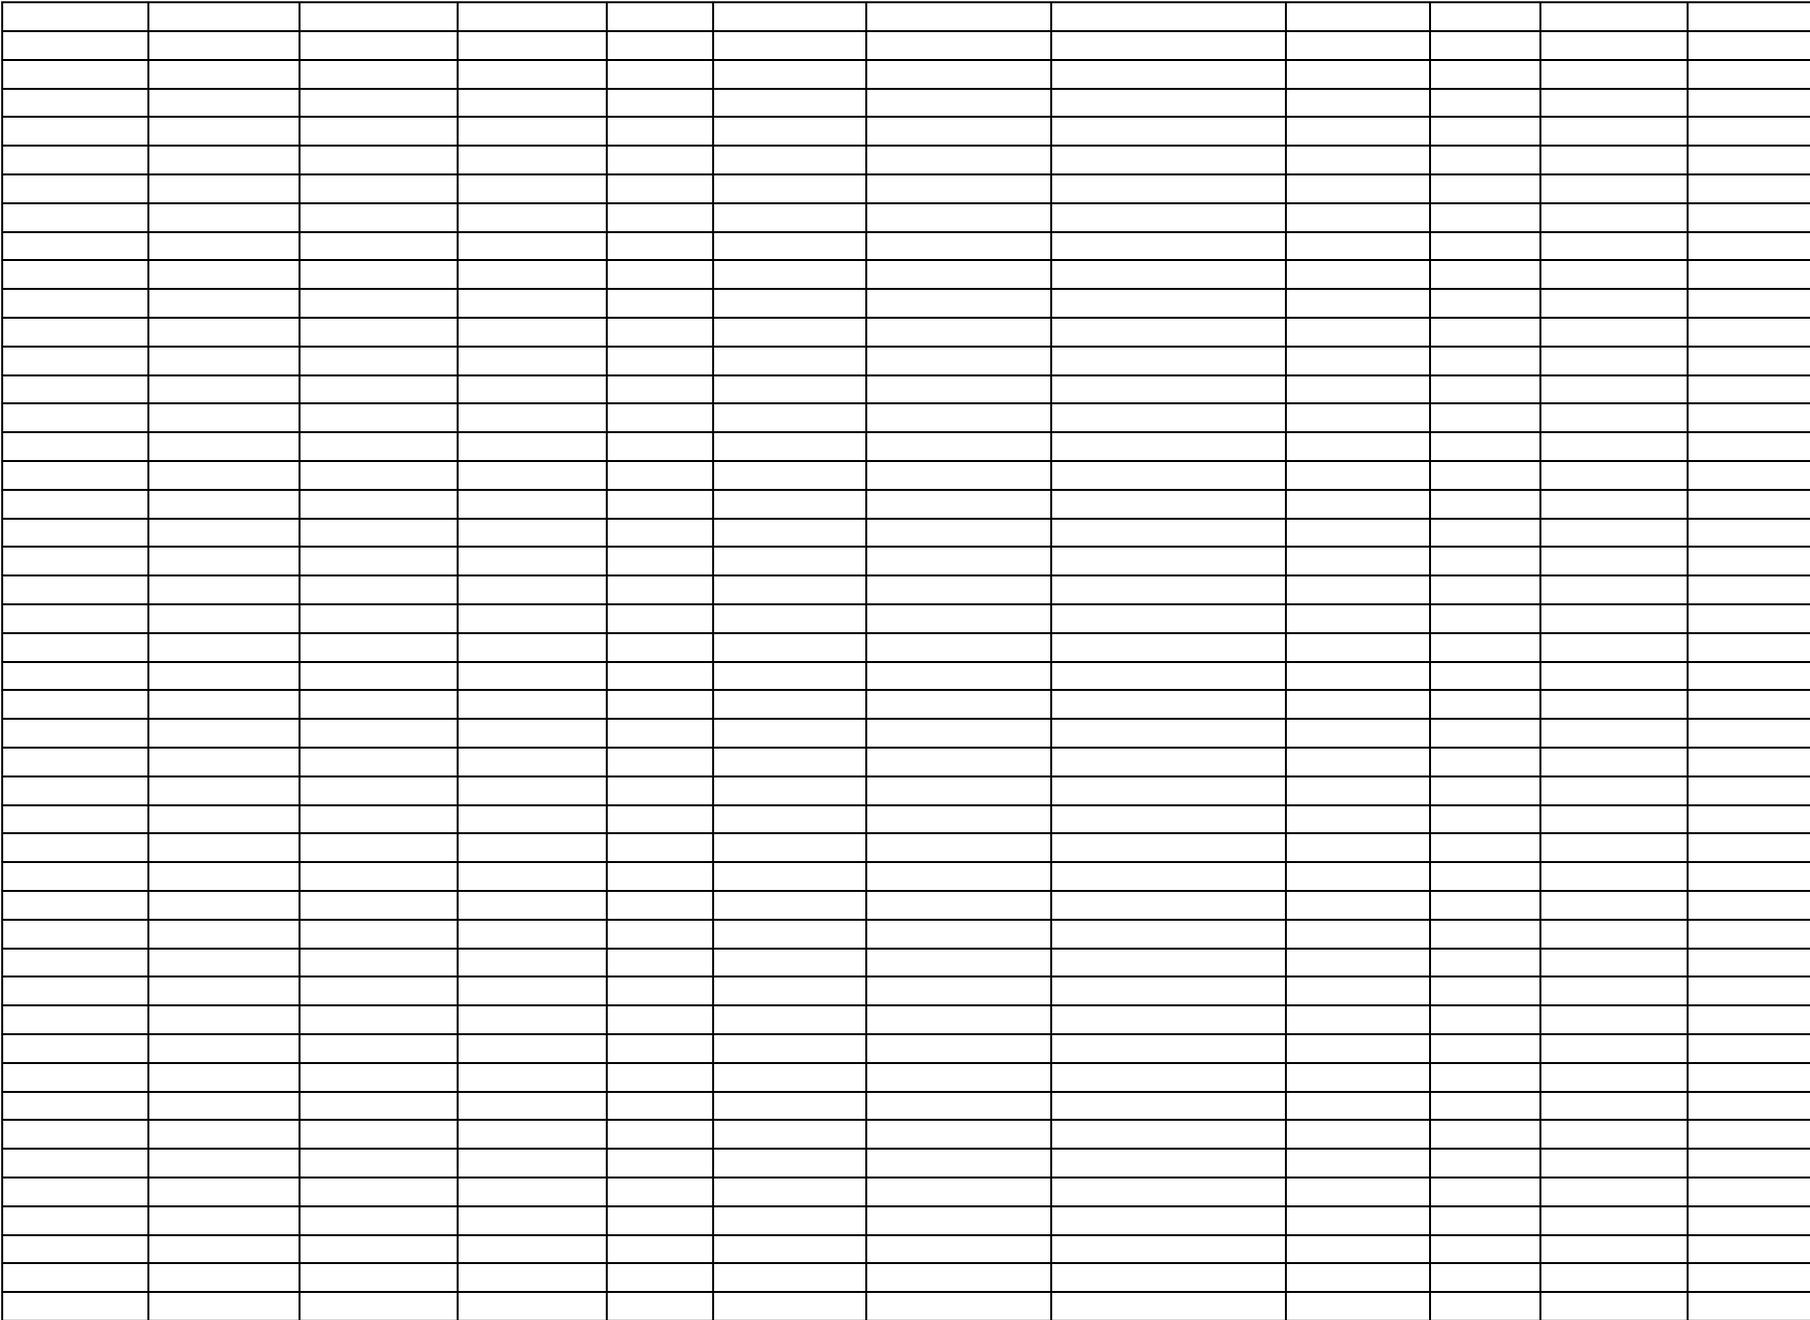

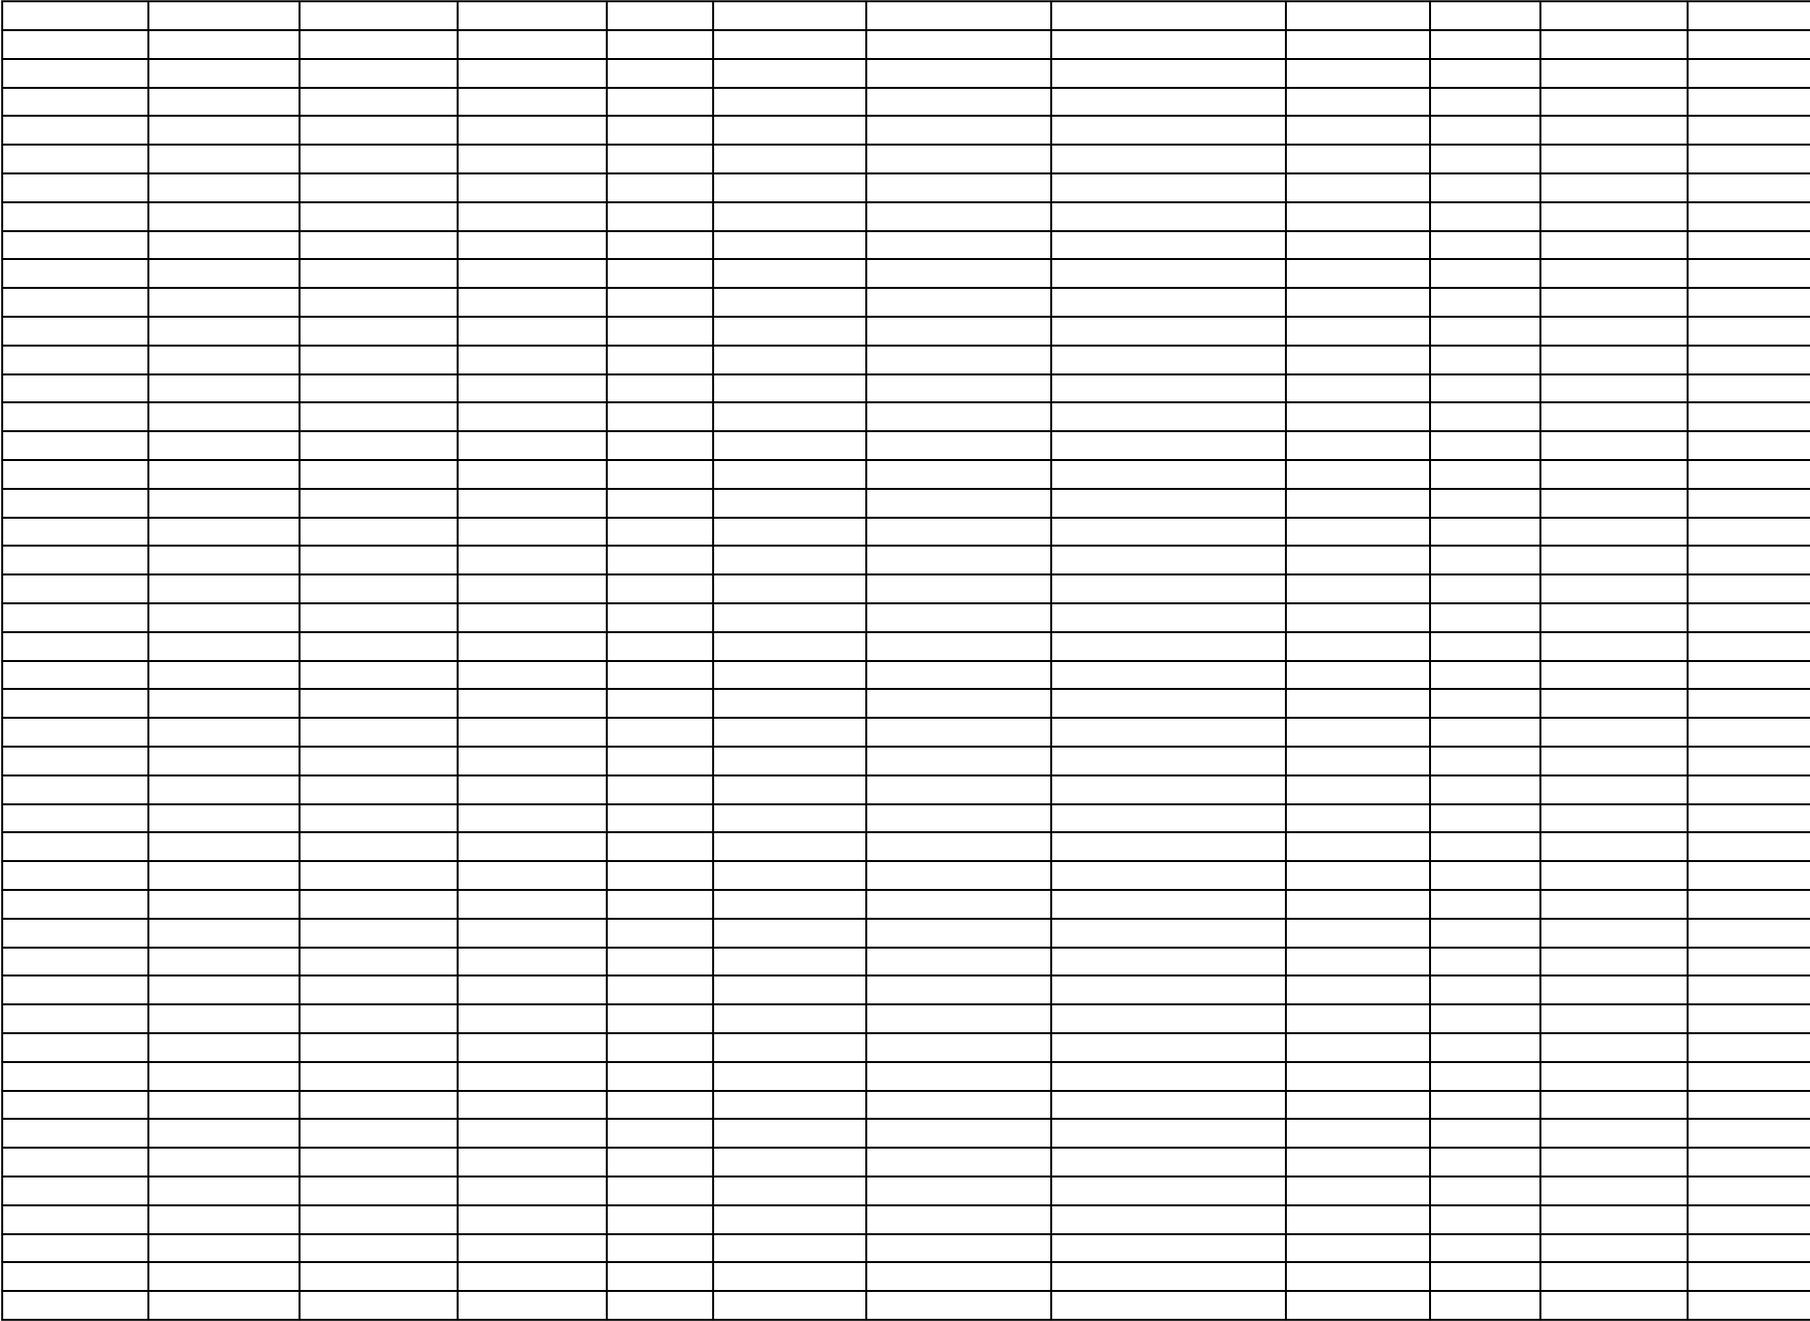

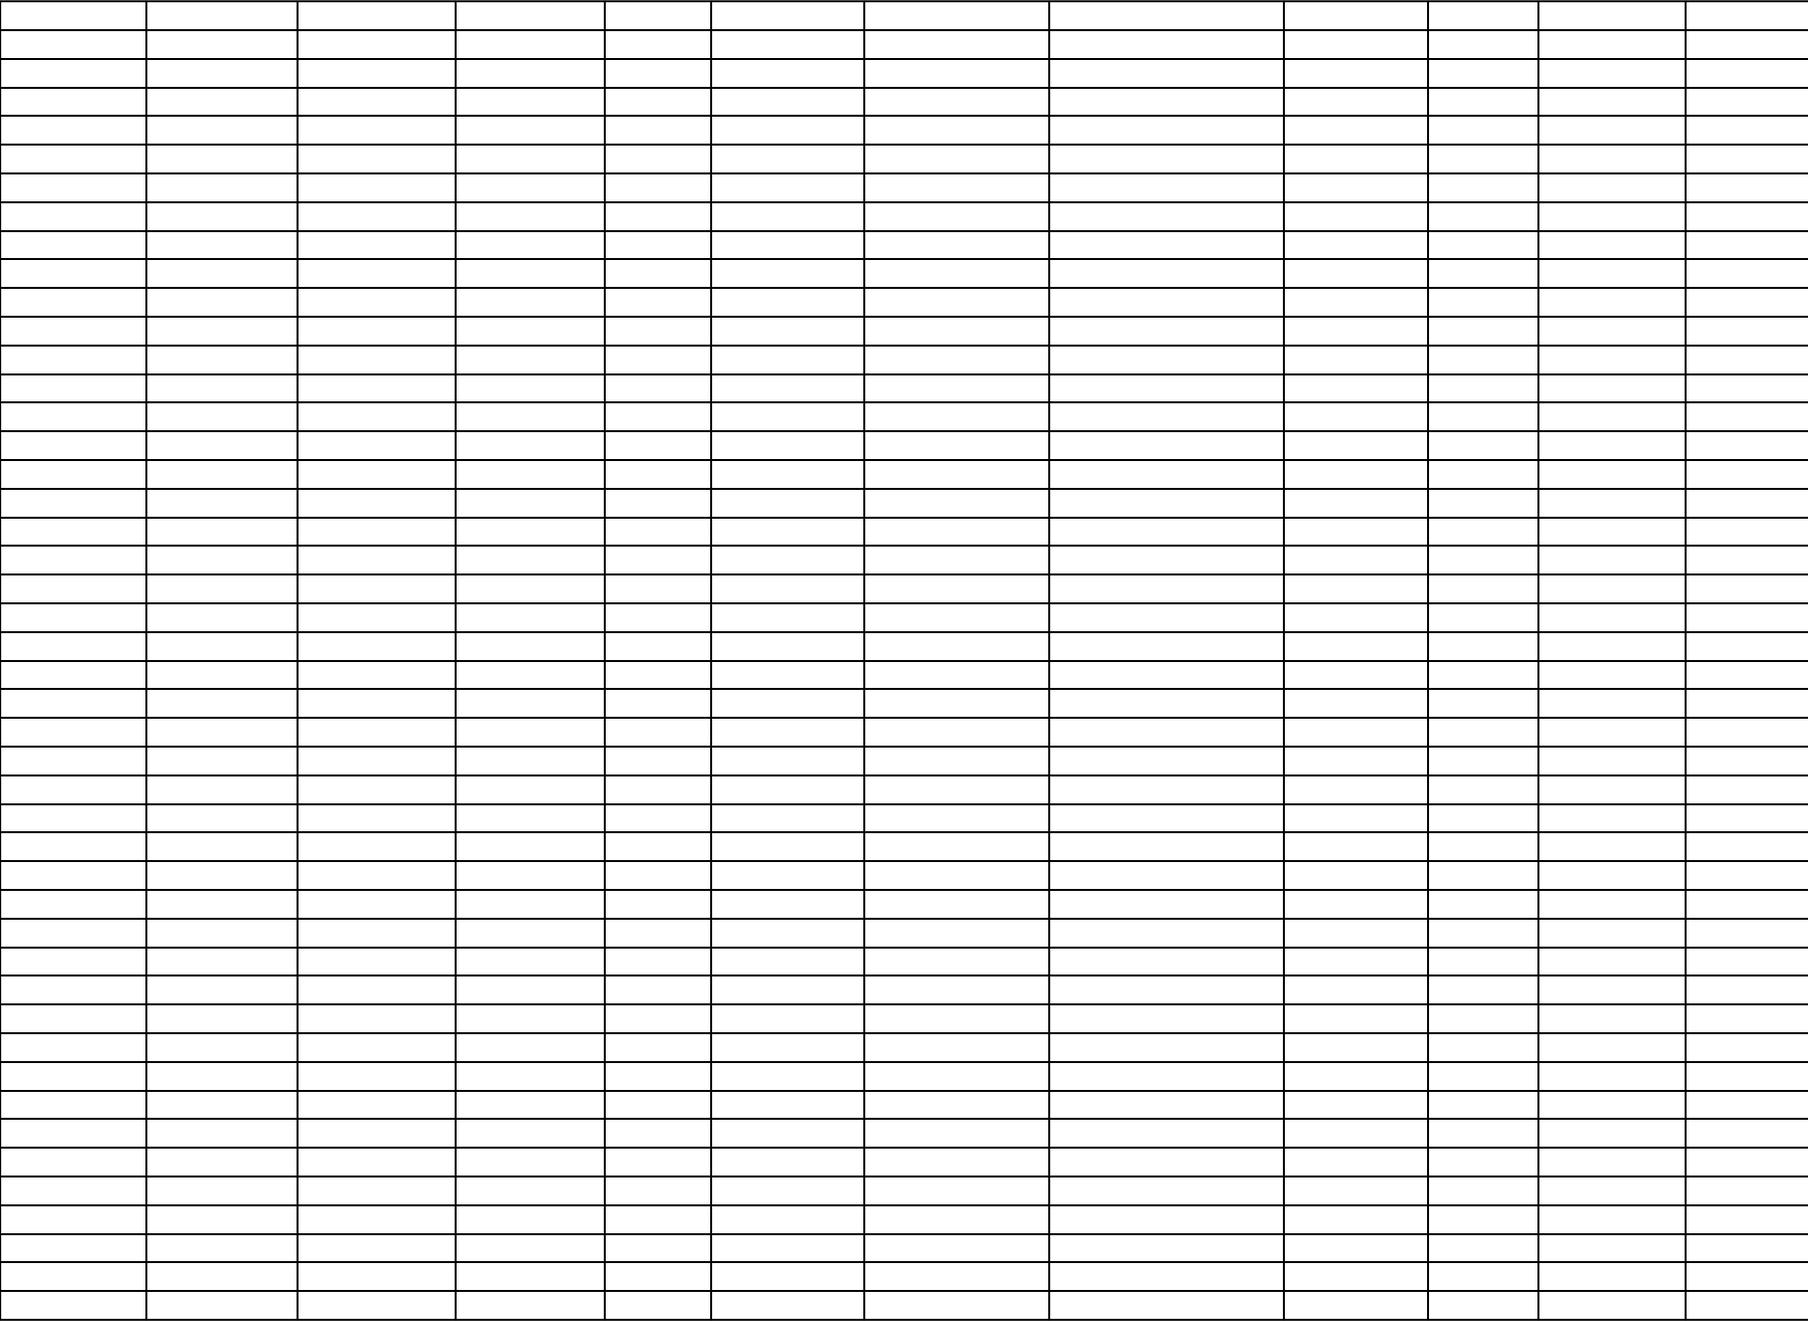

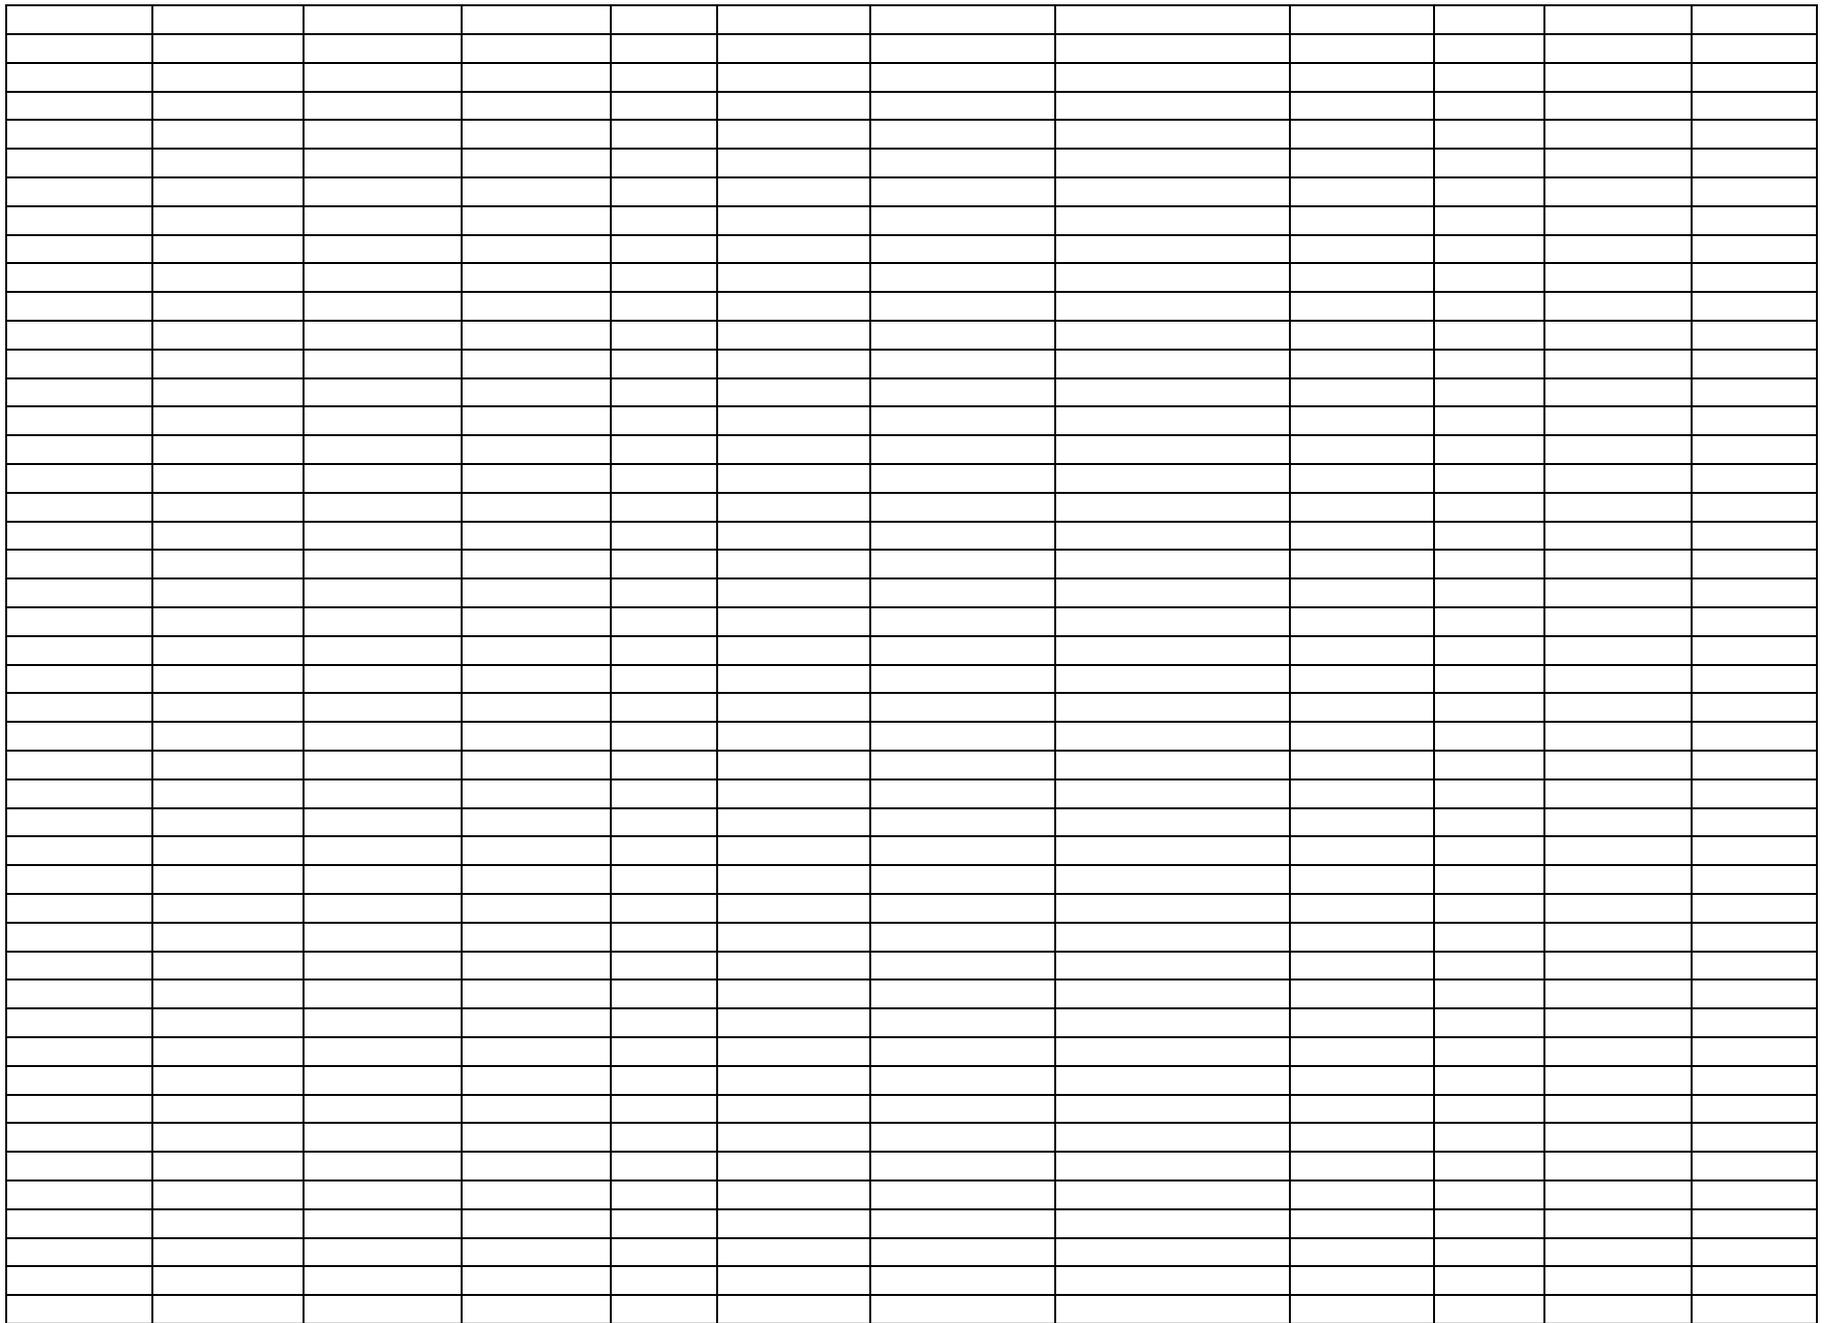

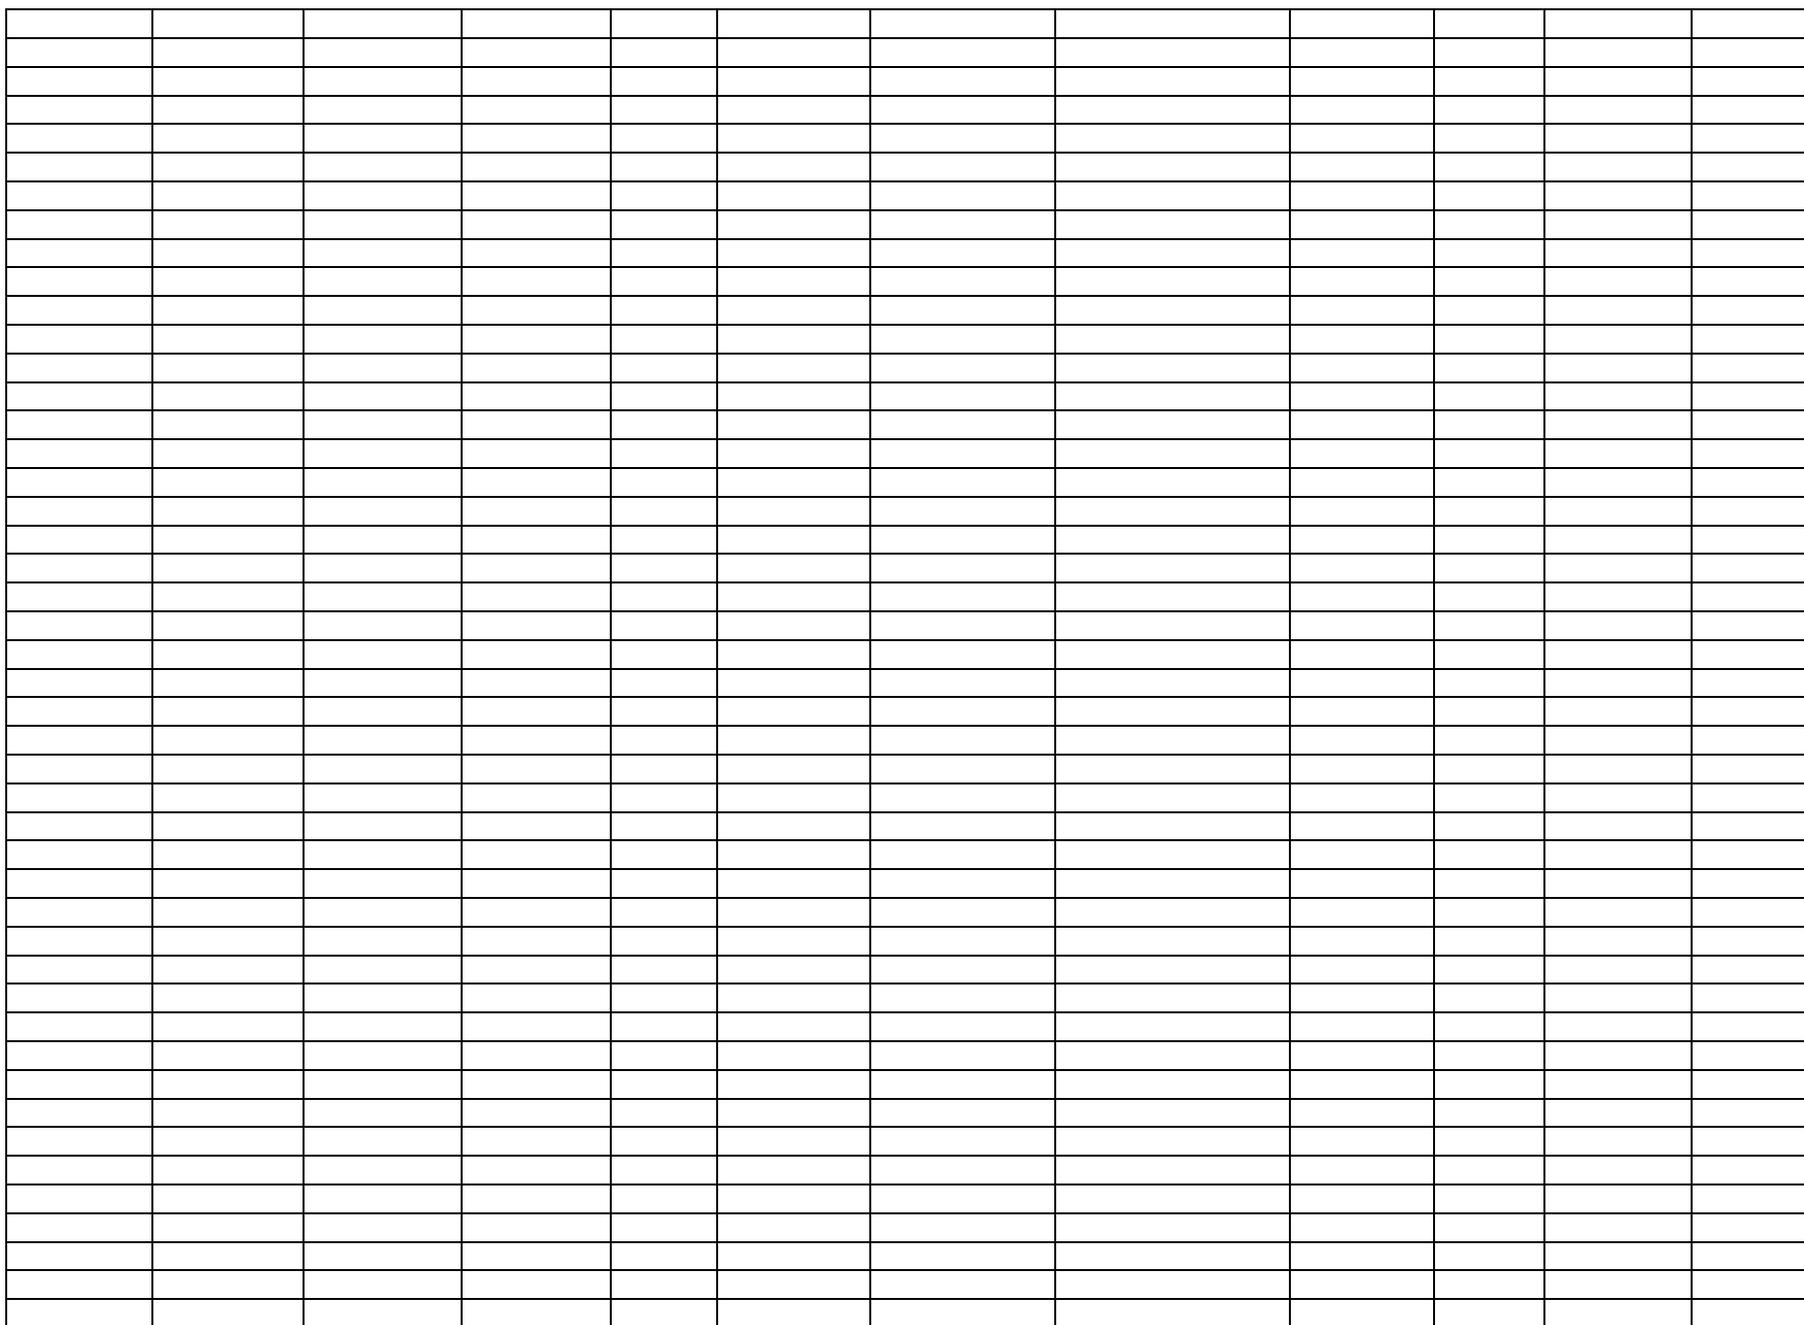

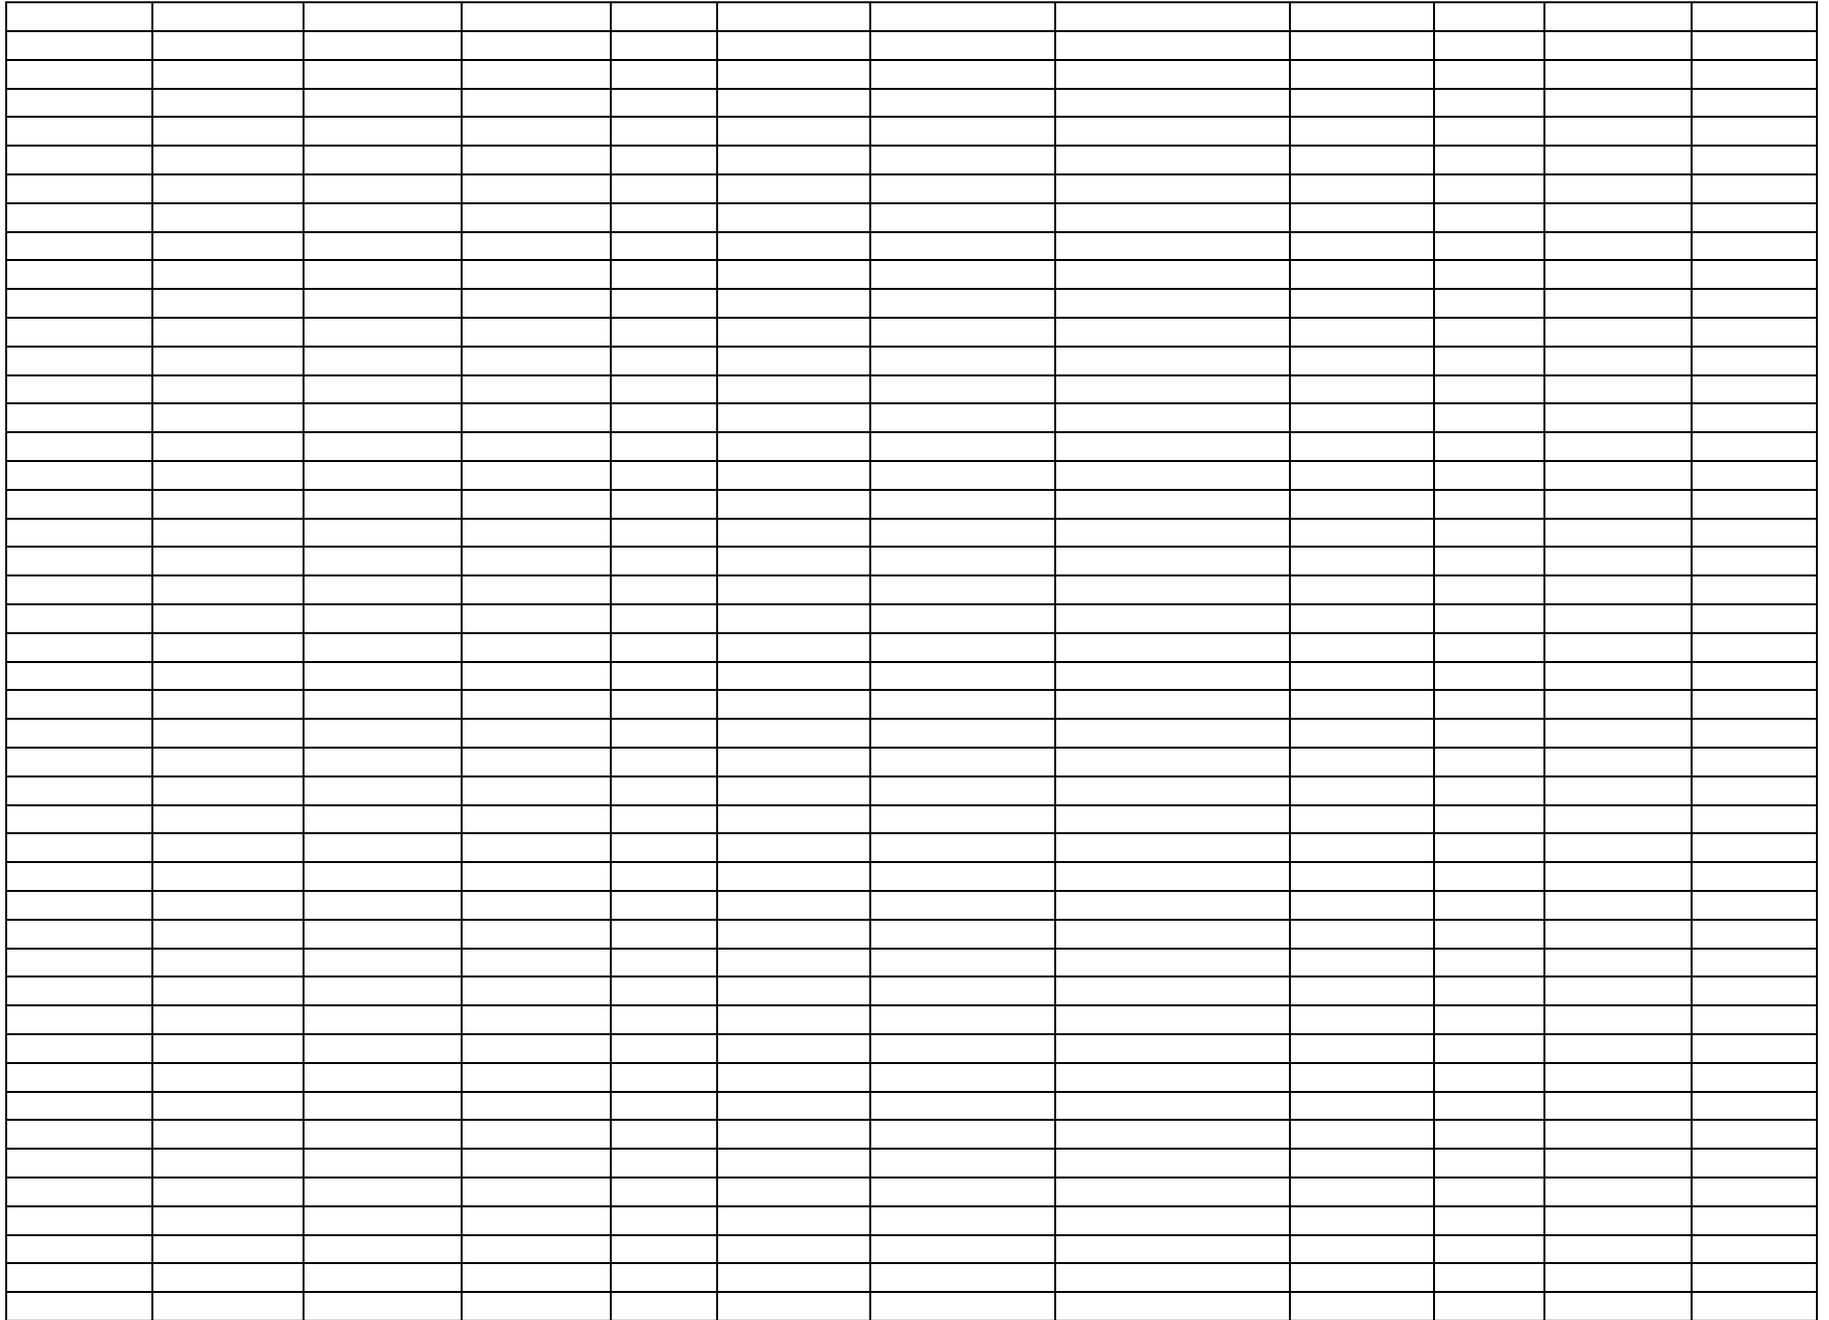

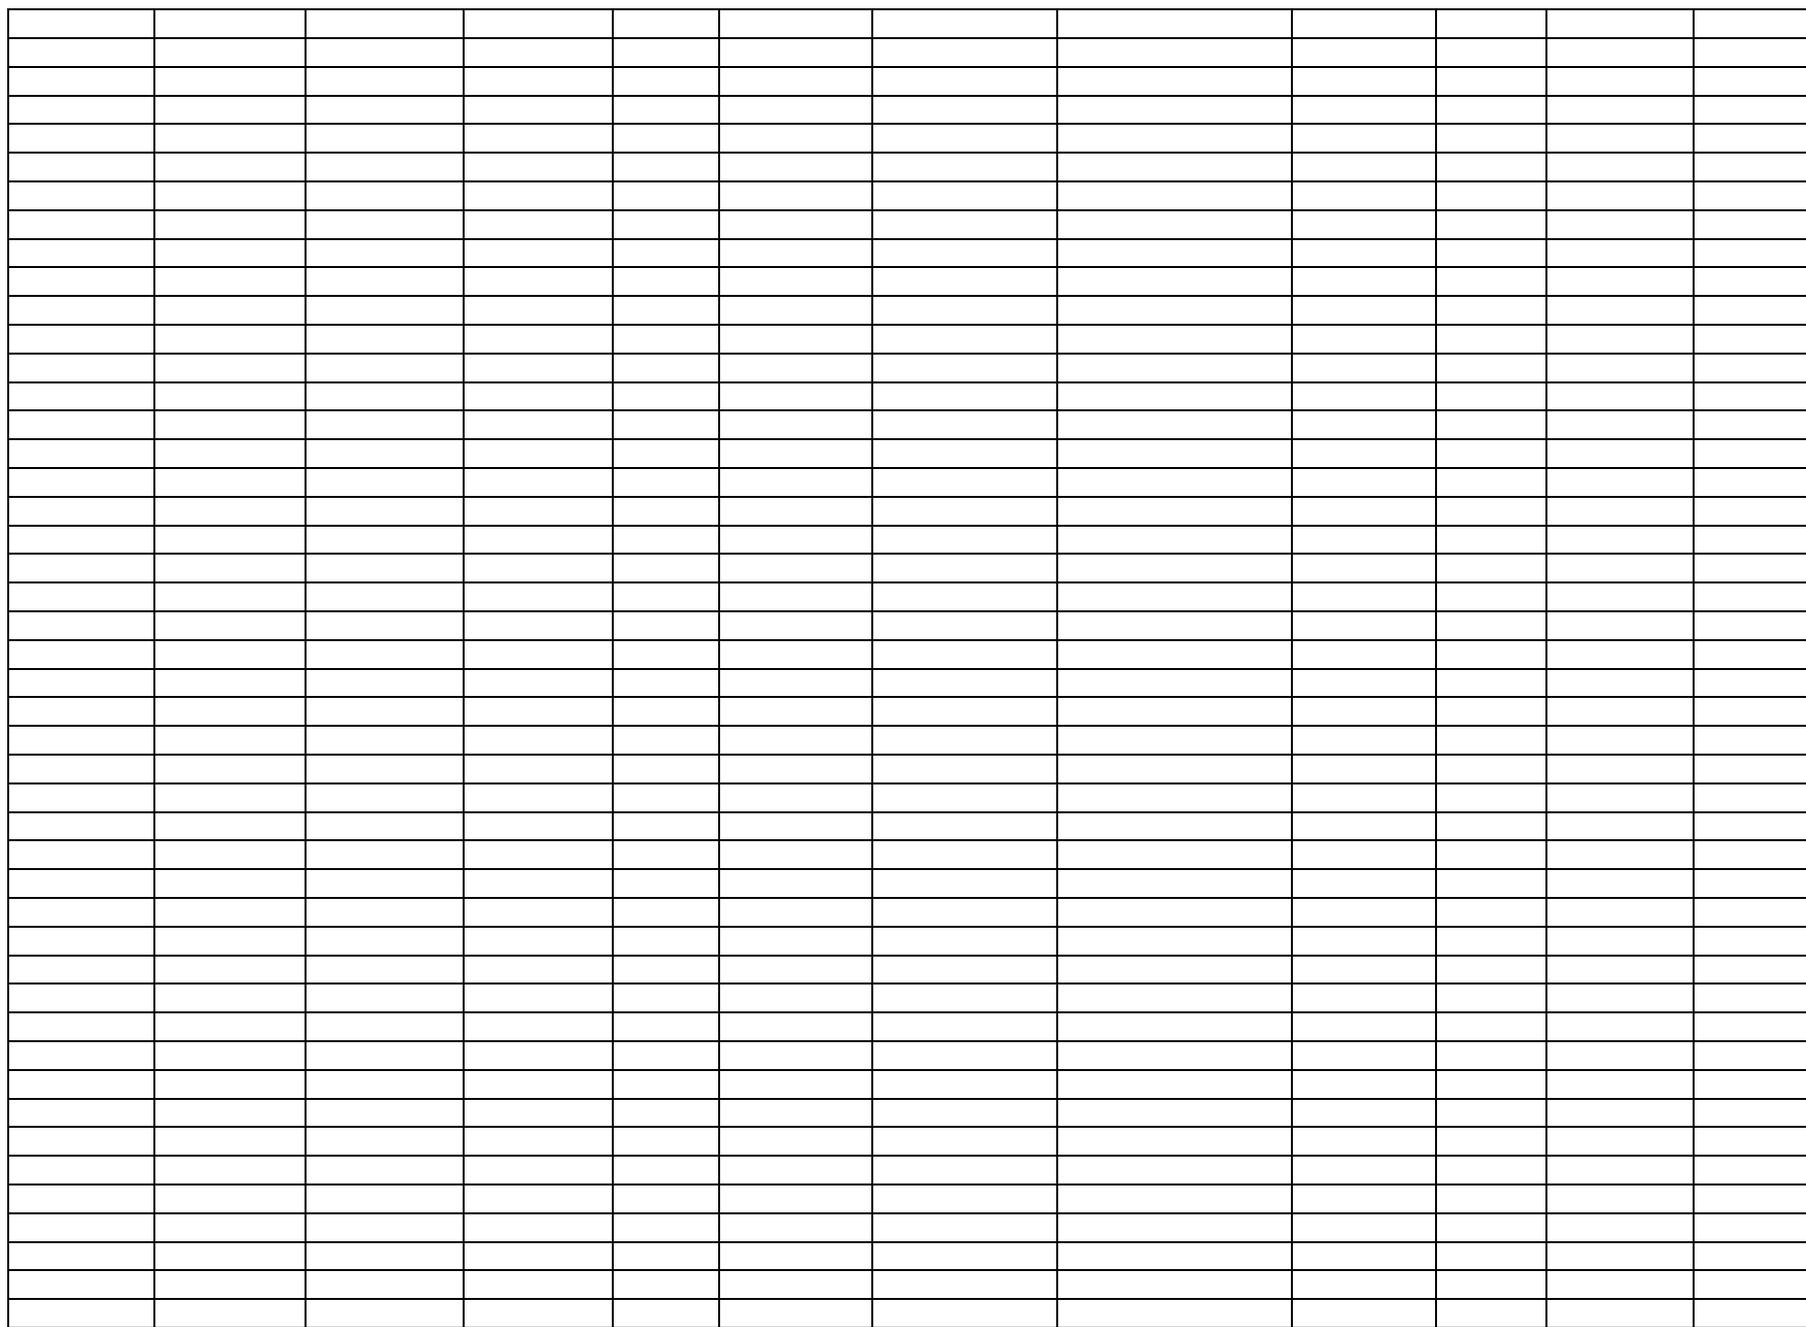

This image shows a standard sheet of graph paper. It consists of a grid of 20 columns and 26 rows. The grid is formed by thin black lines on a white background. The columns are of equal width, and the rows are of equal height, creating a uniform grid of squares across the entire page.

